A note on beneficiary designations:
Some planned giving specialists suggest it is better to specify a percentage of your estate for an organization, rather than a specific sum. This allows your charitable giving goals to adjust with your changing life circumstances. It would be helpful for our charity to have a copy of your will once it is finalized (or at least the section pertaining to us) and the name and number of your attorney if you are using one to prepare your will. This information would be kept in strict confidence.
